

Regan Stuart-Killion graduated from Xavier College Prep in 1984. She is a pediatric critical care physician at Stanford University's Children's Hospital, and lives in San Francisco, California. After graduating from Xavier, she attended Southern Methodist University on an academic-athletic scholarship as a member of the Women's Track and Field Team. She received a BA in English and Pre-Medicine with a minor in French. She earned her medical degree from The University of Texas, Houston, and completed her pediatric residency at Northwestern University's Children's Memorial Hospital, where she also served as Chief Resident. Dr. Stuart-Killion moved to San Francisco in 1999 to train in pediatric critical care at The University of California, San Francisco and Oakland Children's Hospital. She has been working at Stanford since 2005, lives on Ocean Beach with her husband and 1 year-old daughter, and is expecting another baby in May of 2009.